

Tilkure

The following is the information concerning this organic plant:

Appearance

This plant appears to be a single tan-colored round shoot of arm-thick plant material that shoots up straight up from the ground. The unique feature about this plant is that it only grows straight up, like a spike shooting out from the earth. This plant varies in size according to its maturity. At one moon it can reach as tall as 3'. A fully mature Tilkure stalk can reach as tall as 8', although it never has been known to grow more wide than the average man's forearm.

% chance to locate per 24 hours: 5%

of checks per 24 hours: 1

Classification: Plant.

Color: Once cured and dried, the Tilkure Strands will be an off-white color.

Location: Surface.

Maturity: 1 moon (30 days).

Regional habitation: Desert (highland).

Smell: None.

Uses found: There will be 2-D10 Tilkure stalks found.

Value per use: 1 black-gold per 1' in length (this is only after “Maturity”).

Taste: None.

Texture: Silky.

Explanation

Tilkure can be used to create anything really. It is as valuable as silk when cured and dyed and spooled in a neat and professional manner.

Note: The Supernaturalist seek the most expertly crafted fibers of the Tilkure plant as a component to construct what they call the "Shiva"; a human-sized, life-like, doll that comes to life to serve the caster.

Area of influence: Not applicable.

Damage: Not applicable.

Duration of effects: Not applicable.

Effect time: Not applicable.

Effects: Not applicable.

Healing: Not applicable.

Immunities: Not applicable.

Maximum adjustments:

Overdose symptoms: Not applicable.

Range of influence: Not applicable.

Resting time: Not applicable.

Side effects: Not applicable.

Used for: Creating clothing, sacks, blankets, draperies, etc.

Preparation

Cut Tilkure at the base of the stalk. Strip it while it is still wet (as it will be impossible to strip evenly when it dries). Let the strands dry out of sunlight all the while working the strands gently in your hands, or on a roller (this will soften the fibers to an almost silk-like nature). Once the drying process is complete (which takes about 1 hour per stalk) the strands will feel and appear as a beautiful silk.

Avoidance-roll: Not applicable.

Measurement per use: Differs for what you need to make.