

The remains of an adventuring company is found. The corpses, if looked at closely, will be each member of the party. A journal will also be found with the record of what transpired up to the point of the company's demise (yet some pages will be missing, and this will begin a great mystery and riddle for the adventurers to solve, lest they suffer the same fate).

How and when these adventurers fell will be up to the discretion of the Game Master.